Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 08 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Rain spreading north this morning, easing for many places later.

Today:
After a dry and bright start rain will soon arrive, spreading north this morning and becoming locally heavy, especially over high ground. This afternoon the rain will ease, with many places becoming dry and perhaps brighter. Breezy at times today. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Tonight:
Cloudy with outbreaks of rain spreading across the region, becoming locally heavy although mainly over high ground. Winds easing to become light. Mild. Minimum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Sunday:
Outbreaks of rain at first, mainly light, clearing southeastwards through the morning. Brighter conditions with a few showers following. Generally light winds and slightly above average temperatures. Maximum temperature 17 deg C (63 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Sunny spells and scattered showers each day, these mainly in the afternoon and evenings and sometimes heavy and perhaps thundery. Temperatures will be close to, or slightly below, normal.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.